Nadiene Van Dyke has served as the New Orleans Office of Inspector General's Assistant Inspector General for Government Performance for more than five years. A graduate of Tulane University and veteran administrator, Ms. Van Dyke has supervised projects while at the OIG that range from evaluations of police staffing and deployment, to the City's risk management programs, to city procurement policies and procedures. Recently, Ms. Van Dyke co-authored the OIG Lead Exposure and Infrastructure Reconstruction project and is currently supervising the OIG's forthcoming report on the S&WB's water quality testing procedures under the Lead and Copper Rule.