Reviewed in Choice, March 1986, and in Louisiana History XXVII
 (Summer,1986) 3: 317-319, by Thomas Becnel of Nicholls State University.
 Becnel wrote: "Both specialists in labor and economic history and students of Louisiana history in general will benefit from this work. . . Cook and Watson have broken new ground . . . It presents new findings which Louisiana historians should consider and respect." H.L. Mitchell, co-founder of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, wrote in his newsletter : ". . . a real contribution to labor history."

Chapter 1 selected for inclusion in volume 15 of the Louisiana Purchase Bicentennial Series in Louisiana History, Visions and Revisions: Perspectives on Louisiana Society and Culture (Lafayette: The Center for Louisiana Studies, 2000).

Edited Works

Cook, Bernard, ed., Women and War: A Historical Encyclopedia from Antiquity to the Present (Santa Barbara: ABC-CLIO, 2006), 2 vols.

"...a reference no collection should be without: from specialty military collections to general-interest public library holdings, WOMEN AND WAR offers the browser and researcher an A-Z compendium of facts organized by topic. Listings by both war and biographical sketch of individuals allow for easy cross-referencing, while listings often run several pages charting history, culture, and including bibliographic references at the end of each article. Small black and white photos, cross references within volumes for further follow up reading, and an attention to detail make WOMEN AND WAR a recommended pick." Diane C. Donovan, California Bookwatch

Cook, Bernard, ed., Europe since 1945: An Encyclopedia (New York: Garland Publishers: 2001). I wrote over 200 of the entries (over 150,000 words) and recruited 280 scholars from 30 countries to collaborate on this project. Reviewed by David Ettinger, George Washington University, in Library Journal. According to Ettinger, the work is "impressive." He writes "Although not as inclusive as Derek Urwin's Dictionary of European History and Politics Since 1945 (Addison-Wesley, 1996), this is a work of far greater scope and depth . . . this commendable achievement is a useful contribution to the reference literature on contemporary Europe that will be welcomed especially by academic libraries."

American Reference Books Annual, 2002, wrote, "An admirable and outstanding achievement....The scope and depth of this work result in a significant contribution to reference sources on contemporary Europe. It will be an excellent starting point for scholars and researchers and a useful tool for reference staff."

Against the Grain, September 2001, wrote "...offers an up-to-date, thorough treatment of the forces making up recent European politics and history.... should find a welcome place on both public and academic libraries."

Booklist/Reference Books Bulletin, June 2001, wrote "The subject guide allows the reader to scan all of the entries in a few minutes, making the encyclopedia an efficient browsing source.... Europe Since 1945 is a resource that will be used by academic and public libraries by students and general readers needing background information on recent trends, issues and history."
