

Below is the proposed language for Probation/Suspension policy:

An undergraduate student whose Loyola cumulative grade point average (GPA) falls below 2.0 will be placed on academic probation. In the next term (fall, spring or summer), the student will be required to earn at least a term GPA of 2.3. The goal of this GPA requirement is to ensure the student makes progress toward good academic standing, as defined by a Loyola cumulative grade point average of at least 2.0. Students can be on continued probation for up to three consecutive semesters. While on probation, students may not be allowed to enroll for more than 12 hours per term. Any requests for an "incomplete" grade, while on probation, must be approved by the Associate Dean, as stated in the "Incomplete Grade Policy" (link). Failure to make progress during the probationary period will result in the student's suspension or dismissal. A student returns to good academic standing upon achieving a Loyola cumulative grade point average of at least 2.0 and upon fulfilling any other probation conditions required by the college.

An undergraduate transfer student who is admitted on probation must satisfy the same requirements as stated above. Failure to do so may result in academic suspension or dismissal from the university. A transfer student is removed from probation upon achieving a 2.0 cumulative GPA and fulfilling any other probation conditions required by the student's college.

At the end of each term, students will be notified by e-mail and regular mail by their deans of any academic actions. Academic probation is determined solely by the student's grade point average. Academic actions which result from the student's inability to remove himself or herself from academic probation are made on an individual basis. Academic actions may be appealed in writing to the dean of the student's college. This appeal must be received in writing with supporting documentation within 14 days from the date of the exclusion/dismissal letter. A decision will be made within 7 days. Students may not graduate while on academic probation.
